

Personal Reflection

9 September,

This last week has been an amazing journey of learning and development. Because of the chance to learn about DTOs and AutoMapper, my confidence in my ASP.NET abilities has increased. Looking back on the previous week, I can see that I had some trouble traversing the ASP.NET scaffolding, but today I feel much more at ease.

In addition, I've been focusing on a GIS homework that Prem Dai gave me. Even though I haven't finished it yet, I've learned a lot about utilizing markers, geojson, and geocoding. Both professionally and personally, this week has been fruitful. By helping Leela, it has also given me the chance to improve my teaching abilities. Overall, this week has been productive and enjoyable.

